

RESOLUTION OF THE NAABIK'ÍYÁTI' STANDING COMMITTEE OF THE
24th NAVAJO NATION COUNCIL -- Second Year, 2020

AN ACTION RELATING TO RESOURCES AND DEVELOPMENT AND NAABIK'ÍYÁTI' COMMITTEES; OPPOSING H.R. 2181 AND S. 1079, "THE CHACO HERITAGE AREA PROTECTION ACT OF 2019", UNTIL SUCH TIME AS THE BUFFER ZONE SURROUNDING CHACO CULTURAL NATIONAL HISTORICAL PARK IS REDUCED TO FIVE (5) MILES

WHEREAS:

- A. The Navajo Nation established the Resources and Development Committee as a Navajo Nation Council standing committee and as such empowered the Resources and Development Committee with authority to establish Navajo Nation policy with respect to the optimum utilization of all Navajo Nation resources and to protect the rights, interests, sacred sites and freedoms of the Navajo Nation and People to such resources, now and for future generations. 2 N.N.C. §§ 500 (A) and (C)(1).
- B. The Navajo Nation established the Naabik'íyáti' Committee as a Navajo Nation Council standing committee and as such empowered Naabik'íyáti' Committee to coordinate all federal programs and to assist and coordinate all requests for information, appearances and testimony relating to federal legislation impacting the Navajo Nation. 2 N.N.C. §§ 700 (A), 701 (A)(4), 701(A)(6).
- C. The Navajo Nation has a government-to-government relationship with the United States of America, Treaty of 1868, Aug. 12, 1868, 15 Stat. 667.
- D. H.R. 2181 and S. 1079, are identical pieces of legislation in the House and Senate of the United States 116th Congress, 1st Session, that are intended to enact the Chaco Cultural Heritage Area Protection Act of 2019 ("Act") for the purpose of protecting archeological, sacred, and historic resources located throughout the Greater Chaco region, which spans the States of New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, and Colorado. H.R. 2181 attached as Exhibit A. S. 1079 attached as Exhibit B.

- E. H.R. 2181 was introduced by a New Mexico delegation of Congressman Luján, with Congresswomen Torres-Small and Haaland and Congressman Grijalva; S. 1079 was introduced by New Mexico Senators Udall and Heinrich.
- F. While the Act recognizes archaeological, sacred, and historic resources located throughout the Greater Chaco region, spanning the States of New Mexico, Arizona, Utah and Colorado, the Navajo Nation's cultural connection and affiliation to the Greater Chaco Canyon area is omitted and the role of Chaco Canyon in Navajo life and ceremony is ignored.
- G. The Act notes that many Pueblos and Indian Tribes claim cultural affiliation with the Chacoan people, but does not recognize the Navajo Nation even though the greater part of the "Chacoan World" is within the boundaries of the Navajo Nation reservation and aboriginal territory, primarily in the Eastern Navajo Agency.
- H. The Act does not include any plans to protect sites other than Chacoan sites even though there are literally hundreds, if not thousands, of historic and contemporary places within the proposed 10-mile buffer zone where traditional Navajo ceremonies have taken place; where traditional Navajo offerings are made (sacred places, such as springs, rock formations); where sacred and herbal medicines and foods are collected by Navajo people. The use of these sacred places, plants and water resources can be traced through the teachings and traditions that came from the Chacoans who became certain Navajo clans. See Report by Navajo Nation Heritage and Historic Preservation Department attached as Exhibit C.
- I. The Act does not recognize Navajo ceremonial and cultural traditions even though there are many present-day Navajo Holy Way (Diyin k'ehgo) ceremonies that can trace a part of their origins to Chaco Canyon or Chacoan Outliers. These ceremonies include: • 'Atsájí (Eagle Way) • Diné biníłchi'jí (Navajo Wind Way) • Dziłk'ijí (Mountain Top Way) • Na'at'oyee (Shooting Way) • Tóee (Water Way) • Tł'éejí (Night Way) • Anaa'jí (Enemy Way). Exhibit C.

- J. The Navajo Nation has been an exemplary steward of the cultural resources throughout Navajo lands, including the area around Chaco Canyon, and has a history of working to protect archaeological, sacred, and historic resources located in the Greater Chaco region. For example, between 1992 and 2014, the Navajo Nation Historic Preservation Department had a Chaco Protection Sites Program whose primary objective was to oversee Chaco Protection Sites on Navajo land. The Program was authorized by Congress pursuant to P.L. 96-550 which identified thirty-nine (39) Chaco "great houses" with more than half of such "great houses" located on Navajo lands. The remainder of the "great houses" are spread amongst U.S. Forest Service (USFS), Bureau of Land Management (BLM), State of New Mexico, and private lands. Exhibit C.
- K. The Chaco Protection Sites Program was administered through a cooperative agreement with the National Park Service (NPS) wherein the Navajo Nation and the NPS both agreed to "coordinate and mutually assist in protection and resource management actions" within the Chacoan Canyon NPS unit and on Navajo lands and to comply with all applicable Federal and Tribal laws in the preservation of historic and prehistoric sites. Exhibit C.
- L. The Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) and BLM are bound by the National Historic Preservation Act (1966, as amended) to identify and manage cultural resources within their jurisdictions and on federal lands, the BIA (for Individual Indian Allotments) and the BLM are required to consult with the Navajo Nation on any effects of mineral extraction activities on cultural resources. Exhibit C.
- M. The Act's restrictions on extraction operations within the ten mile buffer will have a severe negative economic impact on Navajos owning allotted lands within the buffer zone whose livelihood is derived from royalty payments for oil and gas development on their individually-owned lands.
- N. While the Act says it will not affect the mineral rights of an allottee, it will not allow the people to capitalize on their resources because they will not be able to transport the resources out. The Navajo Nation and the people should be compensated for the loss of opportunity.

- O. All the needed improvements for the Navajo communities are ruled out in advance. Which will make it harder to serve the Navajo people and provide a better quality of life.
- P. Navajo Nation local governments in and near the Act's impact area, i.e., Huerfano Chapter, Lake Valley Chapter, Nageezi Chapter, Pueblo Pintado Chapter, White Rock Local Government, and Eastern Navajo Agency Council, all fear the severe negative economic consequences to their Navajo members livelihood, sustainability and well-being that will be imposed on their communities by the Act's 10 mile buffer zone; and have passed resolutions, attached as Exhibit D, imploring that the buffer zone to be reduced to five (5) miles.
- Q. A data page from the Federal Indian Minerals Office is attached as Exhibit E.
- R. The Federal Indian Minerals Office has supplied the figures on the number of allottees who are affected by the 10 mile buffer zone and the proposed 5 mile buffer zone. See Exhibit E.
- S. HR-1158, The Consolidated Appropriations Act 2020; PL116-93 approved funding for $1 million dollars for a Cultural Resources Study within the proposed 10-mile buffer zone. The Navajo Nation requests the Department of Interior to allocate the majority of this funding for a Navajo cultural resources study as this proposed 10-mile buffer is entirely within Navajo Nation lands and jurisdiction. The Navajo Nation also requests BLM to provide an updated map of the proposed 10-mile and 5-mile buffer zone compromise, outlining the number of Navajo allottees that will be affected by this buffer zones. The Navajo Nation also requests the Department of Interior to complete official Tribal Consultation on the Navajo Nation.
- T. The Navajo Nation finds it in the best long-term interests of the Navajo People and their communities that the Act's buffer zone surrounding the Chaco Culture National Historical Park be reduced to 5 miles.

- U. The Navajo Nation finds it in the best long-term interests of the Navajo People and their communities to oppose the Act until such time as the buffer zone surrounding the Chaco Culture National Historical Park is reduced to 5 miles.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED:

- A. The Navajo Nation respectfully opposes "The Chaco Heritage Area Protection Act Of 2019", H.R. 2181 and S. 1079, until such time as the buffer zone surrounding Chaco Cultural National Historical Park is reduced to five (5) miles.
- B. The Navajo Nation respectfully requests the United States Congress and Senate, specifically Congressmen Luján and Grijalva, Congresswomen Torres-Small and Haaland, and Senators Udall and Heinrich, to take all steps necessary to amend H.R. 2181 AND S. 1079 so that the buffer zone surrounding Chaco Cultural National Historical Park is reduced to five (5) miles.

CERTIFICATION

I, hereby certify that the foregoing resolution was duly considered by the Naabik'íyáti' Committee of the 24th Navajo Nation Council at a duly called meeting in Window Rock, Navajo Nation (Arizona), at which a quorum was present and that the same was passed by a vote of 18 in Favor, and 01 Opposed, on this 23rd day of January 2020.

16 of roads and a network of villages, shrines, and com-
17 munications sites, many of which are still visible;

22 National Historical Park includes hundreds of inter-
23 nationally and nationally significant cultural re-
24 sources, including prehistoric roads, communities,
25 and shrines—

2 sources found in the Chaco Culture National
3 Historical Park, including the resources recog-
4 nized by the amendment made by section 3 of
5 the Chacoan Outliers Protection Act of 1995
6 (16 U.S.C. 410ii note; Public Law 104–11)
7 providing for additional Chaco Culture Archeo-
8 logical Protection Sites;

12 nities in the Greater Chaco region, including

Navajos, Anasazi, Chaco Canyon, and NNC Legislation No. 0366-19

Richard M Begay, Dep't Manager/THPO
Navajo Nation Heritage and Historic Preservation Department
December 18, 2019

The Navajo Nation Council Resources and Development Committee (RDC) is considering Legislation No. 0366-19 entitled "An Action Relating to Resources and Development Naabik'íyáti' Committees: Opposing H.R. 2181 and S. 1079, 'The Chaco Heritage Area Protection Act of 2019', until such time as the Buffer zone surround Chaco Cultural National Historic Park is reduced to five (5) Miles". The sponsor, Delegate Mark A. Freeland (Becenti, Lake Valley, Nahodishgish, Standing Rock, Whiterock, Huerfano, Nageezi, and Crownpoint), has requested comments from the Navajo Nation Heritage and Historic Preservation Department (NNHHPD) regarding his legislation.

Navajo Nation President Jonathon Nez supports the 10-Mile Buffer Zone, and I cannot disregard his decision. However, there are some important omissions in the proposed congressional legislation H.R. 2181. For instance, the legislation uses the terms "Pueblos and Indian Tribes" and does not specifically identify the Navajo Nation, although the greater part of the "Chacoan World" is within the Navajo Nation, mostly in the Eastern Navajo Agency. The information below is meant to inform the Navajo Nation Council, the RDC, and others about the importance of Chaco Canyon to the Navajo People, which is not evident in H.R. 2181.

Brief Background

NNHHPD has worked hard to protect Chacoan places before the present-day efforts to establish a buffer zone around Chaco Culture National Historical Park. I also hope Delegate Freeland uses the information to strengthen his proposed legislation before the Navajo Nation Council.

Chaco Canyon, with all its associated outlying places, and the people who lived there, the Anasazi (Anaasázi)¹, are integral to the formation of the Navajo People. Navajo people have an enormous amount of oral history about Chaco Canyon. Our oral and ceremonial traditions tell us about how the Chacoan system developed, who lived there, about the architecture, the fields of corn, squash, and other crops, about the springs, and so on. These histories recount the cultural, social, and ceremonial traditions at Chaco Canyon and elsewhere. The people and the teachings that came from Pueblo Bonito (Tsé Bíyah 'Anii'ahí), Pueblo Alto (Nááhwíłbiihi Bikin), Kin Ya'a Ruin (Kin Yaa'a), Shabik'eschee Village (Tsé Bik'e'eschí), and other Chacoan places are part of the everyday life of Navajo People today.

¹ There is much public debate about the meaning of the word "Anasazi." The base Navajo word is Anaasázi, or simply naasázi. The word has multiple meanings in multiple contexts. Here I use Anasazi to refer to the "prehistoric" inhabitants of the Southwest. The Navajo word is also used to refer to Paleo-Indian, Archaic, Basketmaker to PI-PIV communities, and other prehistoric populations in the Southwest, such as the Hohokam. Other terms currently in use for the Anasazi include Ancestral People, or Ancestral Pueblo. The Navajo Nation objects to the term Ancestral Pueblo because it erases the Navajo affiliation with the Anasazi as demonstrated below.

The Former Chaco Protection Sites Program

Between 1992 and 2014, the Navajo Nation Historic Preservation Department² had a Chaco Protection Sites Program. The program was authorized by Congress (P.L. 96-550) and administered through a cooperative agreement with National Park Service (NPS). The primary objective of the program was to oversee Chaco Protection Sites on Navajo land. The legislation identified 39 Chaco "great houses," and more than half of them are on Navajo lands. The remainder are on U.S. Forest Service (USFS), Bureau of Land Management (BLM), State of New Mexico, and private lands. In that agreement, the Navajo Nation and the NPS agreed to "coordinate and mutually assist in protection and resource management actions" both within the Chacoan Canyon NPS unit and on Navajo lands. Both parties also agreed to comply with all applicable Federal and Tribal laws in the preservation of historic and prehistoric sites.

Some notable projects include work at Big House at Manuelito Canyon, Newcomb/Cemetery Ridge (prehistoric fields and irrigation system), Navajo rock art in Chaco Canyon, and other places within the Chaco Canyon and Aztec National Monument park units. The Chaco Protection Sites Program sought to:

- Protect sovereignty and preserve material remains of Navajo past, present, and future
- Correct 100+ years of misinformation published/taught by anthropologists and archaeologists about Navajo history in Southwest
- Strengthen Navajo ties to the landscape
- Encourage respect for Navajo traditional history (songs and ceremonies)

The Navajo Nation has actively participated in the protection and management of the remains of the Anasazi, the ancestors of certain Navajo clans³. Aside from the Chaco Program, NNHHPD has worked closely with the NPS, as well as other affiliated tribes, to repatriate and reburial human remains and associated funerary items within park lands. Reburial activities have taken place at Chaco Canyon, Aztec Ruins National Monument, and Mesa Verde National Park, and other park units in the past two decades. We have worked cooperatively with NPS and other tribes to ensure the remains and the places of the ancestors are protected and treated with respect.

Although the Chaco Protection Sites Program no longer exists at NNHHPD, we have used the information collected by that program to continue to protect Chacoan sites on Navajo lands. And just as important, we work with local Navajo residents to protect their cultural heritage, including Anasazi sites.

In 2017 and 2018, NNHHPD approached NPS to reinstate the Chaco Protection Sites Program, but there was no interest from NPS. We will continue to pursue funding for it.

² The Historic Preservation Department and the Archaeology Department merged in 2016, becoming the Heritage and Historic Preservation Department.

³ The claim of Anasazi ancestry is not exclusive. The Pueblo Indians of New Mexico and the Hopi Tribe of Arizona claim descendency from the Anasazi, and the Navajo Nation does not dispute their claims of affiliation.

Ceremonial History

The most prominent story about Chaco Canyon is about Nááhwíłbiihí, the Gambler. In Navajo oral history he enslaved the Chacoan people and forced them to build the structures at Chaco Canyon. The Gambler may be a person or a group of people. In any case, the Holy People, Diyin Dine'é, groomed a Challenger to defeat him. The story of the Challenger goes as far west as Rainbow Bridge, north of Navajo Mountain. The teachings about the Gambler played an important role in the public discussions about the Navajo Nation's venture into casinos more than 20 years ago.

Many present-day Navajo Holy Way (Diyin k'ehgo) ceremonies can trace a part of their origins to Chaco Canyon or Chacoan Outliers. These ceremonies include:

- 'Atsáji (Eagle Way)
- Diné binilchi'ji (Navajo Wind Way)
- Dzilk'iji (Mountain Top Way)
- Na'at'oyee (Shooting Way)
- Tóee (Water Way)
- Tl'ééji (Night Way)
- Anaa'ji (Enemy Way)

Other ceremonies that are no longer practiced, or only have minor rituals, such as Ajitee (Prostitution Way), 'lich'ahji (Moth/Frenzy Way), Hoozhónee (Beauty Way), Mai'ji (Coyote Way), and Yóee (Bead Way), also reference Chacoan places.

Unfortunately, H.R. 2181 does not mention any plans to protect sites other than Chacoan sites. There are literally hundreds, if not thousands, of historic and contemporary places within the proposed 10-mile buffer zone where traditional Navajo ceremonies have taken place. Many people do not want these areas disturbed. Additionally, there are places where traditional offerings are made (sacred places such as springs, rock formations), and where sacred and herbal medicines and foods are collected. Other places include eagle gathering places, 'ood, and antelope traps/corrals, niidzín. The use of these sacred places and plant and water resources can be traced through the teachings and traditions that came from the Chacoan places, from Chacoans who became certain Navajo clans.

An example of a nonstructural place that prominently figures in Navajo tradition is Fajada Butte, Tsé Diyili. It is an important place in several ceremonies, especially the Water Way, Night Way, and Mountain Top Way ceremonies. It is the home of 'Asdzáan Anilghánii (Poverty woman/Woman who will shrivel you up), and the butte should not be climbed for recreational purposes. In the early 1990s, I went on top of Fajada Butte with the late Alfred Yazzie, Dabney Ford, NPS archeologist, Klara Kelley (private consultant), and others to leave offerings. We sang songs and uttered prayers. We talked about the Sun Dagger⁴, and its role in Navajo ceremonialism and cosmology.

Hózhóóji (Beauty Way, but known as Blessingway, to distinguish it from Hoozhónee, Beauty Way, a Holy Way Ceremony) tells the story of the Navajo from the beginning, hodeeyáádáá, and small versions of it are incorporated into all Navajo ceremonies. The Blessingway narrative integrates the totality of origins of Navajo clans and ceremonies. It includes the story of creation of the earth, and the peopling of the Southwest. It tells us how to use the plants, the water, the rocks, the trees, the soil/dirt, and so forth. Chaco Canyon is part of the story of our people, and it is a vital part of the Blessingway ceremony. The role of Chaco Canyon in Navajo life and ceremony is not evident in H.R. 2181.

Clan Origins

The most prominent clan with origins in Chaco communities is Kinyaa'áanii (Towering House People). They originated from Kinyaa'á, a Chacoan Outlier near present-day Crownpoint, NM. The clan has three well-known subdivisions: Dzít t'ahnii Kinyaa'áanii (Mountainside People Kinyaa'áanii), Dootl'izhii Dine'é Kinyaa'áanii (Turquoise People Kinyaa'áanii), and Tázhii Dine'é Kinyaa'áanii (Turkey People Kinyaa'áanii). There may be other subdivisions of Kinyaa'áanii as well. Other Navajo clans that come from Chacoan sites include:

- Áshiihí (Salt Clan), Pueblo Pintado, and Wijiji
- Hashk'aa hadzohí (Yucca Hill People), Pueblo Pintado, and Chaco Canyon
- Kin tichii'ii (Red House People), Kinlichee Pueblo (Arizona)
- Ma'ii deeshgiizhnii (Coyote Pass People/Jemez Pueblo), Pueblo Pintado
- Ta'neeshahnii (Dark Water Plant), Salmon Ruins
- Tó 'aheedliinii (People of the Confluence), Confluence of the San Juan and Los Pinos Rivers, and Aztec Ruin
- Tl'ízi tani (Many Goats), Salmon Ruins
- Tl'áaschí'í (Red Cheek People), Chaco Canyon and surrounding area
- Tsin sikaadnii (Tree Grove People), Casamero Ruins
- Yoo'ó dine'é (Bead People), Chaco Canyon and surrounding area

There may be other Navajo clans that have origins at Chacoan places. The origin places of many Navajo clans are not documented in the existing literature. Numerous Navajo people living in the Eastern Agency are from the clans that originated at the places mentioned above. They are concerned about the management of Chacoan sites and should be included in the discussions related to any efforts to establish a buffer zone around Chaco Canyon.

Conclusion

The Navajo Nation has been a good steward of the cultural resources across Navajo Nation lands, including the area around Chaco Canyon. NNHPD, as well as other Navajo Nation programs, the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA), the BLM and others are working cooperatively on the management and protection of cultural resources in the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for the proposed Farmington-Mancos-Gallup Resource Management Plan Amendment (RMPA). The RMPA is for the lands in the greater Chaco Canyon area.

Additionally, we work closely with the BLM in Farmington on all gas/oil lease sales and Applications for Permit to Drill (APD) to ensure cultural resources are inventoried and protected. This activity is coordinated with the BIA. The Navajo Nation has authority over Navajo Nation lands pursuant to the Navajo Cultural Resources Protection Act (CMY-19-88), and also through a P.L. 93-638 contract from the BIA for archaeological services, and as a designated Tribal Historic Preservation Office (THPO) by the NPS's Tribal Historic Preservation Program. On federal lands, the BIA (for Individual Indian Allotments) and the BLM are required to consult with the Navajo Nation on any effects of mineral extraction activities on cultural resources. The BIA and the BLM are bound by the National Historic Preservation Act (1966; as amended), to identify and manage cultural resources within their jurisdictions. Other federal laws protect cultural resources include the Archaeological Resources Protection Act (ARPA, 1979), as well as numerous other legislations that govern Chacoan sites.

It is important that any legislation that will affect Navajo land-use acknowledge and respect Navajo ceremonial and cultural traditions. I would urge Delegate Freeland to include such wording in the proposed Legislation No. 0366-19, and also to advocate for appropriate wording in H.R. 2181.

BACKGROUND

The Department of the Interior established the Federal Indian Minerals Office (FIMO) to provide and improve Indian Trust services to individual Indian beneficiaries in the management of their oil and gas mineral resources. The FIMO office has received multiple concerns and complaints regarding the proposed ten-mile leasing buffer zone around Chaco Culture National Historical Park (Chaco).

FIMO currently plans to move forward with a proposed lease sale for Navajo Indian allotments. Pending legislation (H.R. 2181) could indirectly impact the lease sale for the Navajo Indian Allottees.

Legislative (H.R. 2181) is currently pending, as currently written, would prevent certain federal minerals from being leased in the Chaco area. Section 3 of the pending legislation excludes Indian lands from this leasing prohibition. However, based on the geology and land status of the Navajo Eastern Agency, FIMO believes there potentially could be an indirect impact on any lease sales for Navajo Indian allotments. For example, the Mancos Shale reservoir lies south of Counselor, Huerfano and Nageezi Chapters and north of Chaco Park. To maximize full extraction of the product, a horizontal lateral crossing 3-4 miles subsurface may be required. Due to the cross jurisdictional land status in Navajo Eastern Agency, a proposed horizontal lateral could need to cross federal land. Thus, a lease sale of allotment minerals might correlate with leasing federal minerals in a reservoir area. An inability to lease adjacent federal minerals might impede a company from maximizing production from certain wells or laterals on allotment minerals. FIMO will continue to act pursuant to applicable federal statutes and regulations in evaluating any lease offers and approving any leases. See 25 U.S.C. §§ 396, 396d; 25 U.S.C. § 2102; 25 C.F.R. part 225.

DATA

The following information was pulled and analyzed to provide a better understanding of how this pending legislation could indirectly impact the development of Oil & Gas in the Eastern Navajo Agency. Specifically, FIMO was asked to provide the following information:

- 1. How many oil and gas leases are potentially impacted? How much money is generated from these leases? When were they last leased? What is the % of Tribal ownership, if any, in the individual allotments in the park and buffer zone?

10 Mile Buffer – Leased Allotments

- There are currently 53 allotments that are leased within a 10 mile buffer of Chaco
- The 53 leased allotments generates an average of $6.2 million a year in royalties for the allottees.
- There are approximately 5,462 allottees that received the amount stated above based on their individual allotment percentage.
- The leased allotment covers approximately 8,479.49 acres of allotted lands

- The Navajo Nation has percentage interest in 9 leased allotments.

10 Mile Buffer – Unleased Allotments

- There are currently 418 allotments that are unleased within a 10 mile buffer of Chaco
- There are approximately 16,615 allottees associated with these allotments.
- The unleased allotment covers approximately 66,575.82 acres of allotted lands
- The Navajo Nation has percentage interest in 288 unleased allotments.
 - a. 6 allotments will be transferring from Navajo Indian Allotted to Navajo Nation Tribal Trust
 - b. NN has 50 % interest in 86 allotments.
 - c. NN has 25%-49% interest in 133 allotments.
 - d. NN has 1%-24% interest in 63 allotments.

2. What would a 5 mile buffer zone look like?

5 Mile Buffer – Unleased Allotments

- There are currently 51 allotments that are unleased within a 5 mile buffer of Chaco
- There are approximately 2,111 allottees associated with these allotments.
- The unleased allotment covers approximately 8,157.47 acres of allotted lands
- The Navajo Nation has percentage interest in 38 unleased allotments.
 - a. NN has 50 % interest in 4 allotments.
 - b. NN has 25%-49% interest in 18 allotments.
 - c. NN has 1%-24% interest in 16 allotments.

- The Navajo Nation has percentage interest in 9 leased allotments.
